Justification / Uzasadnienie

Hassan Bazazzadeh, PhD student at the PUT Doctoral School in the field of architecture and town planning, met all the requirements of the mid-term assessment:

1. Research studies are conducted in accordance with the Individual Research Plan (IRP) and timetable of doctoral dissertation preparation, and the quality of implemented tasks is satisfying. The research is promising and the results have a chance to be innovative and important for development of science, civilization and society as the role of energy efficiency of built heritage is crucial for achieving sustainability, especially in historic cities, as well as mitigating climate change. It is also important to improve the process of energy efficiency assessment, to which the undertaken research may contribute.

2. Assessment of scientific achievements and other activity directly related to implementation of doctoral dissertation: the research activity of the doctoral student deserves a distinction. The research results were published in 4 articles in high-scoring journals from the MEIN list (2 of them for 140 points) and in 2 chapters. The research was also presented at 4 conferences. H. Bazazzadeh has made an effort to apply for a NCN grant in the PRELUDIUM 20 competition this year, although he was not the principal investigator in scientific projects and scientific scholarships and has not yet completed an internship related to implementation of doctoral dissertation. The student fruitfully cooperates with his supervisor and other researchers.

3. The Individual Education Program (IEP) is realized consistently, although the student has not yet realized mandatory practical training in chosen scientific / research / industrial unit.

5. Hassan Bazazzadeh's Presentation of Achievements and scientific discussion were highly rated. The student has demonstrated the knowledge of research issues and methodology and is aware of the limitations. The Commission positively evaluates the education process and the progress of Hassan Bazazzadeh's research.
